DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

1. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

2. Claims 1-6 and 8-20 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Japanese Patent Abstract JP2127596 (the abstract) in view of Glasser et al, 5,900,479 (Glasser), for reasons of record.

Response to Arguments

3. Applicant's arguments filed March 8, 2006 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive.

Applicant's argue that the JP '596 reference teaches impregnation of the chitosan solution on the paper, thus, no "coating" of the substrate occurs and that more chitosan is needed in JP '596 as it is spread all over the thickness of the base material.

In this regard, the claims do not exclude impregnation and, contrary to applicants' assertions, impregnation does in fact result in a coating on the surface of the substrate. Moreover, there is no clear factual evidence on this record to support applicant's allegation that more chitosan is needed due to impregnation.

Applicants argue that the consistency taught by the examples in the JP '596 reference is very low, whereas in the present invention, the consistency of the coating solution is 60% and above up to 30%.

In this regard, the JP '596 reference teaches supports covered with a chitosan based coating, essentially as claimed by applicants. It is to be expected that changes in concentration are unpatentable modifications. In the instant case, the general conditions of the claims are taught in the prior art. Therefore, it is not inventive to discover the optimum or workable ranges by routine experimentation.

Applicants argue that Glasser, while relating to the formation of chitosan films, is not done by using low viscosity chitosan, and does not teach the use of hydrolysis so as to reduce the molar mass of the chitosan as is accomplished according to the present invention.

In this regard, Glasser is relied upon for all that he would have reasonably imparted to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made, namely, the inclusion of citric acid and the utilization of chitosan having a molar mass within applicants' claimed range.

Allowable Subject Matter

4. Claims 7 and 21 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

Conclusion

5. THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within

Art Unit: 1774

TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
